Best Year Yet Foundation's Impact in Poland

DENVER, CO, July 1, 2018 – Best Year Yet® and the House of Guardian angels in Katowice, Silesian district, Poland have teamed up for powerful results in working with children, youth and their families from disadvantaged circumstances, leading them to better lives and increased opportunities.

Led by Best Year Yet Certified Partner Katarzyna Jarońska-Kurowska, the organization's Management Team and the Young Leaders Team have created more focus, increased alignment in their teams and produced results that really matter for their organization and their many clients using the Best Year Yet team and individual planning process and online tools.

Since its establishment over 25 years ago, The Child and Youth Help Association House of the Guardian Angels has grown from a small organization that worked primarily with teen prostitutes, drug addicts, and children who were left at home alone to an integrated community service organization that is operating in three cities and serves over 730 children and youth daily as well as 80 families. In addition, the association runs a training and internship program for students from Silesian universities and a voluntary academy for hundreds of people per year. House of Guardian Angels for its activities has been honored with The Award of Silesian Voivode „ŚLAŃSKIE NA 5” in category: Philanthropy (2010), The Award and Main Prize PRO PUBLICO BONO (the award committee led by prof. Jerzy Buzek and prof. Andrzej Zoll – 2011) and Main Prize „MARKA ŚLAŃSKIE” in category: nongovernmental organizations (2016).

“We hope to grow our support of this successful and important community impact organization in the years to come,” said Best Year Yet Foundation Executive Director, Aaron Cohen. “Our focus together will also include establishing sustainability for the program so they can scale and run it internally as much as possible. The results have been amazing and the work that our Certified Partner, Katarzyna, is doing with this team is world-class.”
